++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Becoming clearer and colder overnight. Sunshine and showers Wednesday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rather cloudy with a little rain for a time during the evening, however becoming clearer and colder later in the night, with isolated blustery showers following in places. Generally breezy, although a ground frost is likely in sheltered areas. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Wednesday:
Bright and breezy, with sunny spells and isolated blustery rain showers, these showers mainly affecting the Pennines. These showers should ease later, ahead of a cloudier and increasingly damp evening. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Unsettled and often rather cloudy and breezy through this period. Temperatures should be above average at first, but turning colder later Saturday in wake of a spell of rain.
